PECULIAR CASE ALLEGED BIGAMY

W. H. Dutchall Accused of It After His First Wife Had Been Burned to Death.

DIVORCE DECREE WAS ISSUED

While He Was Serving His Country In Cuba With the Eighth Ohio Regiment.

ODD WEST TOWNSHIP STORY.

Lisbon, June 9.—(Special)—W. H. Dutchall had a hearing in Squire Walker's court in West township yesterday on a charge of bigamy, and in default of $300 was sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury. Dutchall says that several years ago he was married to a woman in Pittsburg, but only lived with her a short time. When the Spanish American war broke out he enlisted in the Eighth Ohio, and went to Cuba. While in Cuba he received a letter from his wife saying that she had secured a divorce. After his discharge from the army he secured a position as brakeman on the Cleveland and Pittsburg road, and about a year ago married Miss Cora Tarbot, of West township.

Last January Dutchall's first wife was burned to death in Pittsburg. It was learned then that while a decree had been issued, yet a divorce had never been granted on account of the costs not having been paid in the case. These facts recently came to the knowledge of the father of Dutchall's second wife and he had him arrested for bigamy.

It is said the case may be dropped. Dutchall bears an excellent reputation.

Three fingers of his left hand were also missing. He was taken to the county infirmary, as he had no thought that he can recover. He had relatives in this country and it is not been in this county but a few days and had a wife and child in Austria.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Wild Dash of a Horse and Buggy Down Calcutta Road and Walnut Street.

There was an exciting runaway on Calcutta road just before 6 o'clock last evening. A buggy containing a boy of about 14 was coming down the road LYNCH above Saint's when the horse took fright and bolted. The boy lost the down the road with the buggy swaying from side to side and the boy holding on to the sides to prevent being thrown out. At the corner of East Market and Walnut the horse took across the sidewalk, narrowly escaping a telephone pole on one side and the fence on the other. Its feet slipped and it fell full length, while the buggy ran up on its hind quarters and the boy was pitched forward, although not out. Recovering its feet the horse took to the roadway and dashed down Walnut, falling once and then on to the Horn switch, where it made a short curve and brought up against the coal office on the left. The boy lost no time in jumping and lit on his feet and ran, while a young man caught the animal before it could resume its career. No one was hurt, but the horse was more or less scratched up. The buggy escaped without serious damage.

K., T. & K. won the ball game yesterday from Laughlin No. 2 and by so doing remained in first place, while the latter team went down to third playing this afternoon.

K., T. & K. were minus some of their best men, and it was a 2 to 1 shot that they would lose the game before it started, but they hit harder than Laughlin's and Lynch's two bad errors gave them several runs. It rained several times during the game, but the players played it out. It was the first game on the Rock Springs diamond and the spectators and players were well pleased.

The game opened with Laughlin at bat and they went out in one two, three order, K., T. & K. followed suit, and Laughlins succeeded in getting two men to first in the second, but could not score. K., T. & K. made three in their half on a hit by pitched ball, a fielder's choice, an error by Smurthwaite, a hit by Winters and one by Millward. In this inning Millward was declared out for batting out

In the third Laughlins got another goose egg and K., T. & K. shared the same fate, Lynch only pitching four balls to retire the side.

In the fourth Laughlins made their first run on an error by Winters and a hit by Lynch. K., T. & K. made four on a base on balls, two hits and two bad errors by Lynch, who was responsible for all the runs made in this inning.,

In the fifth Laughlins made four on three hits, an error by Headley and a fielder's choice. K., T. & K. made two more in their half on a fielder's choice and three hits.

Laughlins made another one in the sixth on a base on balls and an error by Boughton. K., T. & K. followed suit and made one on two hits.

Laughlins did not score any more during the game, while K., T. & K. made four more in the eighth on errors by Speight and McCullough, a base on balls and two hits.

WANTED TO FIGHT.

John Mulran Persisted in Scrapping Yesterday and Got Himself in Trouble.

John Mulran was the only victim to fall into the hands of the police yesterday. He was arrested for fighting. Mulran was in an ugly mood when he tackled Buck Jackson. One time he was thrown down and Jackson held him until he said he was ready to be good. When he got up he started the battle again and was shoved away once more. Finally some one telephoned for the patrol and Mulran got a ride to the city jail. He is still awaiting a hearing. The affair took place on Fourth and Washington streets.

ture Benefit to Business by Dun's Review.

NEW YORK, June 9.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade, issued today, said in part:

The adjournment of congress, after a useful session, the progress toward peace in South Africa and the rapid adjustment of prices here to a more natural level, all tend to bring nearer the day of greater activity. But that progress has not been rapid and the yielding of prices affects many only as a reaction, cutting off part of the profits supposed to have been se The Pittsburg glass blower nomina- cured. It is but a few days since an eminent ironmaster overwhelmned doubts and questions by the positive declaration that any decline whatever in the price of iron this year was simply impossible. Yet anthracite No. 1 has declined $4.25 per ton, and this week the Bessemer association has reduced its price at Pitts burg $4.90 per ton, and the southern makers $2 per ton. The decline in ratio of prices of pig iron from 112.7 in January to 93.6 this week and in the finished products from 98.5 to 80.1 as first-class goods. We would deem does not show the entire change, as the steel and wire company's guarantee of prices in case of further reduction respecting products not then shipped is in effect a concession. A few large contracts are reported, but the new business is so small that many works are stopping or reducing force.

LONDON, June 9 .- A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Yokohama, dated Friday, describing the effect upon Japan of the refusal of the Korean emperor to give an audience to the Japanese minister regarding the torture and execution of political suspects, said:

The feeling here is excited. It may not be possible for the government to keep it in check, as the officials were able to do at the end of March, when Russia made her demands, particularly on the questian of Masampho. It is thought here that Russian influence is behind the affront given by Korea to Japan. The tone of the Japanese press is very bitter, and grave developments are possible.

OVER LITTLE

To Be Given a Day of Rare Enjoyment In the Woods at Oakland Park, East End.

CITIZENS ASKED TO HELP ALONG

Captain E. S. Niles, of the Salvation Army, is busily engaged preparing for the annual childen's outing. Last year over 300 poor children were given a most enjoyable outing at Oakland, and the captain hopes to be able to take as many if pot more this year. The picnic will be held on Friday, June 22. at Oakland. The transportation will be furnished free and the pleasure of the little ones will be looked after at the park by two committees, one of ladies for the girls and one of men for the boys. Captain Niles makes an earnest appeal to all citizens who think such an outing would be worthy. The expense of the day is more than the army can attend to unassisted, but if the good people will come to the rescue as they did last year there will be no difficulty.

The detailed arrangements for the outing have not yet been completed, but it is the intention to have the cars on the switch at 8 a. m. so that the children can reach the park early in the morning and have the whole day there, returning in the cool of the evening. It is the intention to furnish ice cream and lemonade to all the children participating.

BRAVE CORPORAL AND FIGHTING AMERICANS

Praise For Them In the Official Dispatches Describing the Affair at Catubig, Samar Island.

Washington, June 9.—The war department received reports from Captain H. M. Day, of the Forty-third volunteer infantry, and First Lieutenant J. T. manded the rescue party, giving all the closed 11600 15gc and July oats details of the attack, the siege and the relief of the American garrison at Catubig, island of Samar. A party of 31 enlisted men of Company H, Fortythird infantry, held at bay a force estimated at about 600. According to these reports the attack on the garrison at Catubig began without warning on Sanday morning, April 15. On Tuesday morning handfuls of burning hemp were thrown into the barracks from the insurgents in a church, and soon the soldiers' refuge was on fire. All efforts to subdue the fire failed, and finally the little band made a dash for the river bank. Some were killed before the bank was reached, others fell dead in a boat in which they were attempting to make the opposite shore, and, when a trench finally was dug with bayonets, there were only 16 of the 31 left to man it. Here for two more days Corporal Carson held out under a terrible fire, until Lieutenant Sweeney's command, which had been ordered to supplement the garrison at Catubig and was on its way up the river on the steamer Leo Ang, arrived. The small boats were lowered, a landing effected and the rescuers fought their way through the open to their besieged comrades in the trenches, buried the dead within reach, brought back to the boat the besieged party, numbering now only 13 men, and then steamed down the river

Captain Dev bestows the highest commendation upon Corporal Carson as "displaying extraordinarily good judgment in the handling of his men, thereby saving the lives of the survivors and protecting the wounded until relief came." To each of the little command, and their rescuers, he gives the highest praise. Their zeal and ability," he says, "were a fitting example of the worth and courage of the

Rise In Wheat and Fear of Western Railway Rate War Affected the Market.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The combination bull movement in wheat and bear movement in stocks, which is an annual feature at some period of the growing crop, made its appearance Friday. There is growing uneasiness as well over the rate situation among railroads west of Chicago. Failing a settlement, there is said to be a likelihood of a widespread and costly rate war. Coming in combination with the bad reports from the wheat country, this served to effectually break the market, and prices went to pieces in the last half hour of the trading, the weakness spreading from the Grangers, Pacifics and Southwesterns into the trunk lines and specialties and embracing the whole list. This break came after a day of persistent dullness and irregular fluctuations in prices. Missouri Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio showed weakness before the general break on fears of disappointment regarding

The preliminary estimates of the bank state ment figure out a small loss in cash, owing to the week's heavy absorption by the sub-treasury, which amounted to $3,117,000, all on account of the call by the transury of government deposits in the banks. The estimates of receipts from the interior are slightly in excess of those made last Friday, but it will be remembered that last Friday's estimate fell short by $1,500,000 of the actual receipts, so that a gain in cash in today's statement would not be surprising. The market closed active and weak at about the lowest.

The bond market was very dull and price changes were very small. Total sales, par value, $1.190,000. United States bonds were unchanged in bid quotations.

A RISE IN WHEAT.

Advanced 2 1-2 to 2 5-8 Cents Per Bushel, Making Over 5 Cents In Three Days.

New York, June 9.—Another sensational advance took place in wheat Friday, prices advancing 21/2 to 25/8c per bushel, making over 5c in the last three days. The outside speculative interests were big buyers of wheat on crop damage news from the northwest, and the profe sional operators, while trying several times during the day to undermine prices, met their match and were obliged to retreat in the last hour when highest prices of the session were attained. Crop damage reports from spring wheat states are undoubtedly very bullish, but there is some question as to whether the advance has not been too rapid under the circumstances. July wheat went up trom 753 c early in the day to 77% in the late afternoon, closing at 7714c. Foreign houses also proved good buyers of the staple, and general sentiment was strongly in favor of higher prices, should rain be withheld much longer from the spring wheat belt. Operations in the option market reached a total of about 5,000,000 bushels for the day, which is the heaviest busines done in a year or more.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 9 .- Heavy general buying, caused by the warm weather in the northwest, advanced July wheat 234c Friday. Sympathy with wheat ad-Sweeny, of that regiment, who com- vanced the other markets. July corn higher. Provisions at the close were from 5c to 712c improved.

MILLIONS OF BOXERS.

More Powerful Than Any Chinese Political Party.

MANIPULATED BY ADROIT MEN.

Movement In Reality Said to Be Against All Foreigners-May Turn Ultimately Against the Dynasty - Secret Orders Paralyze Chinese Military Action,

LONDON. June 9.—Definite returns regarding the severe fighting between the assault on Miss Pauline Hensel and the Chinese groops and the "Boxers" that was going on Thursday between den on a street car, were each sentenced Tien Tsin and Pekin had not been received at Tien Tsin when the latest telegrams to reach London were filed. The of criminal correction. Chinese troops, however, had killed many "Boxers," according to some reports, while another account had the government soldiery defeated in an engagement near Pao Ting Fu.

Apparently the legation guards have not yet taken a hand in the fighting, but they are ready to do so at a moment's notice. The "Boxer" movement affects some bundreds of square miles. The official dispatches to Vienna from Pekin aver that the sect is more powerful than any political party in China, embracing more than 4,000,000, and manipulated by zealous and adroit men.

The representatives of the powers are still acting in perfect concert, which appears for the present to give the Chinese government ample chance to put down the disturbers alone.

Secret orders from Pekin, the protectar of the rebels, has paralyzed military action by the Chinese and raised the status of the "Boxers" in the eyes of the ignorant masses. Although the "Boxers" declare their first object to be the annihilation of Catholic converts, the wire-puller's evidently wish to propagate hatred among the country people against foreigners and things foreign in general. The movement on the surface has a patriotic character, but it may turn ultimately against the dynasty. This seems to be the reason why it has thus far been treated with a gentle hand.

The legations at Pekin have wired for reinforcements.

MISSIONARIES SAFE.

But a Dispatch From a Presbyterian Missionary Said There Was Still Danger.

NEW YORK, June 9 .- The anxiety which had been felt in regard to the Presbyterian missionaries in the Pekin district was partially allayed by the receipt of a cablegram from Dr. John W. Henry, one of the board's oldest missionaries in China. The board cabled for information, and the reply, which came several days later, read:

"Still danger," This was taken to indicate that no serious depradations had been made as yet by the Boxers. The Presbyterian board has 58 American missionaries in the Shantung province. The American board also received a cablegram stating that all American missionaries were well, but that the government was demoralized, and advised that help be requested from the state department.

LARGE ORDERS OF ARMOR.

Naval Department Will Try to Get It Cheaper by Asking Bids For Big Amounts.

Washington, June 9.—The navy department is about to issue advertisements calling for proposals for supplying face-hardened armor of the best type for the battleships already building, for the protected cruisers already mine was completely destroyed. authorized and for the three battleships provided for in the new naval appropriation bill. Having been assured that much better terms could be extended by the armor companies if the contracts were for larger amounts of armor, the department will test this by providing in the advertisements for the admission of bids of three classes, namely, for supplying 10,000 tons of armor, then for 20,000 tons and finally for supplying 30,-

There is reason to believe that under the last provision at least, the companies will offer to provide armor for less than $500 per ton. It will be for Secretary Long to determine whether their figure is reasonable. If not he must build an armor plant. The weight of opinion, however, is to the effect that any rate below $500 will be regarded as "reasonable."

PRESIDENT'S VISIT TO CANTON.

Decided to Remain In Washington Until

Latter Part of Month. WASHINGTON, June 9.—It now seems probable that the president will not go to Canton until the latter part of the after the national Republican convention, which meets in Philadelphia on June 19. A large number of letters have been received at the White House from political organizations in different parts of the country, stating that it was their intention to stop in Washington for an hour or two on their way to the Philadelphia convention to pay their respects to the president. Under these circumstances the president has decided to remain here until after the convention. It is understood that he has decided not to take the California trip this summer.

Friday was the anniversary of Mrs McKinley's birthday and many of her Washington friends called to offer their congratulations. A large number of baskets and bouquets of flowers and congratulatory telegrams were received during the day.

Otis Commuted Death Sentences.

Philadelphia Mayor Replies to Citizens.

HE TURNS DOWN INVESTIGATION.

Said the Proposed Committee Would Have No Legal Right to Compel Witnesses to Testify-Declared English Visited Wanamaker In Private Capacity.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—The reply was made public of Mayor Ashbridge to the citizens' committee relative to the English-Wanamaker episode of a few weeks ago.

The committee, in its communication, asked for a public investigation by a committee of citizens to be appointed, one by the chairman of the town meeting, and one each by the Board of Trade, the Trades' Leagne, the Commercial Exchange and the Manufacturers' club.

The mayor, in his reply, denied that Director English visited Mr. Wanamaker in the capacity of a public official, but said his call was purely that of a private citizen to protest against the publications in The North American (which is owned by Mr. Wanamaker's son) regarding Director English's private affairs and those of his family. The mayor said that Mr. Wanamaker had previously informed Mr. English that he did not approve of such publications, and that Mr. Wanamaker had invited Mr. English to call upon him in case of recurrence of such objectionable publi-

He said the proposed investigation would not be legal, as it would have no power to compel attendance of wit-

Relative to the demand that Mr. English be dismissed unless his innocence can be clearly established, the mayor says that it is always presumed that a man is innocent unless proved otherwise, yet the committee would apply a different rule in the case of a trusted official. Under such test, he says, no man could ever be safe.

The mayor makes no direct comment on the request for his own resignation.

In the course of his answer he declared the resolutions adopted by the town meeting were of no force, as they said English went in his public capacity, which he did not. He said he would himself protest against attacks on his private affairs or family, and he gave his employes the same privilege.

any or its prototypes, containing the best and strongest of an, and the worst and weakest of none. It was born of common dangers, common hardships, mutual sacrifices and common purposes, shared by all and endured by all with a common fortitude. These founders of a new moral and material empire came to build up a nobler commonwealth in a virgin soil; not to dismantle, dismember and scatter the acretions of the ages; to forge and weld the new links of a newer brotherhood, higher than creeds, holier than dogmas, not to tear agape the wounds inflicted by the javelins of prejudice or wrought by the hand of bigotry.

Upon a broad and solid rock like this, in the midst of hostile nature and a barbarous race, with one hand on the plow and the other on the hilt: with peace upon the right, war upon the left, hope in front and natal memories far arear, our pioneer ancestry laid the foundations of the state and began erecting the proud temples of empire which their children and their children's children are now completing, under the shining folds of that ensign whose stars differ not in brightness nor diminish in glory. Strong of mind, strong of body, strong of limb, strong of faith, strong of purpose, strong of hope and strong of courage, they smote the wilderness and it smiled responsive to the newer aspirations. The dusky hosts of a cumbering barbarism were driven hence, the primeval forest melted before their steady strokes, the log cabin followed the wigwam, the songs of civilization and the anthems of coming peace drowned the war whoop, hamlets budded by lake and hill and river and rivulet, and cities finally arose and grew to grandeur and mansions dotted the country side as the tide of emigration from beyond the mountains and beyond the seas poured into and over the fertile plains of the Ohio basin, submerged the rounded and modulated hills, and touched the long savannas with a life and a civilization which paled the supreme moments of the Golden Age, until Ohio became indeed, the seat of thought and empire, fitted and destined to lead the republic in the first great political and military epoch which followed the sealing of the purple testament of the Revolution.

Theirs is the glory of the achievement; it is ours to enjoy the rich harvest which followed their sowing. Not one of us need care to trace his lineage beyond the noble men and women who founded the state of Ohio. The bluest blood of kings is but as water compared to the pulsing current that throbs through the veins of the sons and daughters of the pioneers of Ohio. 2 1326 aster remember to partie produce at the second research of the second research research of the second research of the second research res

The heroes of the classic page, born of mythology and garnitured with the rainbow tints of poetic fancy, did not come up to the stature of the pioneer men and women whom the most of us have seen in the flesh, who taught our feet to walk; who taught us the plain and simple truths of an unselfish Christianity; who taught us that matchless code of morals which elevated while it restrained: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." We may well claim to be the princes of the earth for we take our title by birthright from heroic and godlike men and women, who stand before kings and potentates, whose achievement was the founding of an empire which recognizes manhood and wemanhood as the true factors of the political and social problem. Their deeds live after to praise them-deeds that rival those of Homer's heroes, and "there are the breath of fame and trumpets blowing in them," and will be till the end of our civilization.

Superficial people occasionally assert that our pioneer ancestry were of coarse social texture, ignorant of the finer amenities of life and unlettered and unlearned. This is a mistaken idea and so proven by the written records of the times, as well as by our own knowledge gained by contact with our ancestors.

Mental Giants of First Half Century.

During the first half of the century, here in Ohio, the graces of learning and knowledge and social amenities were more eagerly and earnestly sought for and more generally found, in proportion to the mass of population, than during the last half. There were no frills and fringes on the plain and practical schooling of those days, but the scattered schools turned out mental giants and trained athletes, whose names and lives are an imperishable part of our history.

Between 1800 and 1850 Ohio nurtured and bred a John McLean, a Jeremiah Morrow, a John W. Campbell, a William Creighton, Jr., a Philemon Beecher, a Duncan McArthur, a Joseph Vance, a Samuel F. Vinton, a Mordecai Bartley, an Elishia Whittlesey, a James Findlay, a William Stanbery, a Henry Stanbery, a Thomas L. Hamer, a William Allen, an Allen G. Thusman, a Jeremiah McLane, a Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., a George E. Pugh, a Stanley Matthews, a Bellamy Storer, a Patrick G. Goode, a Joshua R. Giddings, a Salmon P. Chase, an Alexander Duncan, a Thomas Ewing, a Thomas Corwin, an Emory D. Potter, a John B. Weller, a David Tod, a John Brough. a Joseph J. McDowell, a James J. Faran, a Robert C. Schenck, a David P. Disney, an Alfred P. Edgerton, a Thomas Worthington, an Edward Tiffin, a Benjamin Tappan, a Benjamin Wade, a William A. Trimble, an Edwin M. Stanton, and an hundred others equally great.

The geographical position of Ohio, with reference to more than half the other states of the Union, makes it the gateway for the domestic land traffic and transportation between the east and north, and west and northwest and southwest, while her lake ports at Toledo, Sandusky, Cleveland and other points along the southern shore of Lake Erie put her in direct communication with the great water route between all of these sections, except the southwest, which is supplied by the Ohio river.

The original boundaries of the state were: On the east by the Pennsyl-Vania line; on the south by the Ohio river to the mouth of the Great Miami; on the west by a line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami river; on the north by an east and west line drawn through the southerly extreme of Lake Michigan, running east after intersecting the meridian that makes the western boundary of the state until it intersects Lake Erie, or the territorial line; and thence, with the same, through Lake Erie to the Pennsylvania line.

The eastern, southern and western boundaries remain unchanged, but the northern boundary was somewhat changed and modified. As finally established by congress, in 1836, it consists of a direct line, or in other words, of the arc of a great circle, instead of a parallel of latitude, from the southern extremity of Lake Michigan to the most northerly cape of the Maumee Bay. and thence northeast to the boundary line between the United States and Canada, and along this boundary to its intersection with the boundary of Pennsylvania. This change was provided for in the enabling act of congress, and also by the state constitution of 1802; but the moving cause thereto was the dispute that arose prior to and culminating in 1835-6, between the state of Ohio and the territory of Michigan, as to jurisdiction along this border. More technically defined, the territory of the state may be said to lie between 38 degrees 27 minutes and 41 degrees 57 minutes north latitude, and betweeen 80 degrees 34 minutes and 84 degrees 49 minutes west longitude. More popularly described, it is bounded on the east by Pennsylvania and West Virginia; on the south by West Virginia and Kentucky, the Ohio separating it from the two latter; on the west by Indiana, and on the north by Michigan and Lake Erie. The longest north and south line that can be drawn through the state is 210 miles, and the longest east and west line is 225 miles. The area of the state is 40,760 square miles.

Physical Features of the State.

The general surface of the state is an undulating plain. The highest point of elevation-1,540 feet-is one-half mile northeast of Bellefontaine, Logan county, locally known as Hogue's Hill. There are 42 other elevations, in as many counties almost as great. The lowest noint is found at the southwest corner, at the intersection of the Ohio and Great Miami valleys, where the elevation above tide is 440 feet. These extremities of altitude are but 1,100 feet apart, making the range for the state small. The range of elevation over the entire state is proximately 750 feet.

The chief feature of the topography of the state is the main watershed, which extends from its northeastern corner to about the middle of its western boundary. It divides the surface of the state into two unequal slopes, the northern, and much the smaller, sending its waters into Lake Erie and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, while the drainage of the other has its destination in the Gulf of Mexico, via the Ohio and Mississippi. The average height of the watershed is 1,100 feet, but it is cut by three principal gaps, marking the upper waters of the Maumee, Scioto and Tuscarawas; the former draining the western portion of the northern slope, the second the central, and the last the upper eastern portion of the southern slope.

While the general plan of the state is an undulating plain, the action of the waters, especially on the southern slope, has diversified it with wide and fertile valleys, beautifully modulated hills, and rugged bluffs and highlands, making a most striking ensemble. There are alternations of hills and valleys, glens, champaigns, and wide stretches of prairie. The principal rivers on the southern slope are the Tuscarawas and Muskingum, which uniting, flow into the Ohio at Marietta; the Hocking, at Hockingport; the Scioto, at Portsmouth; the Little Miami, at the upper boundary of Cincinnati; and the Great Miami, at the corner of Ohio and Indiana. The rivers draining the northern slope are the Maumee, with its numerous tributaries, which falls into Lake Erie at Toledo; the Portage, at Port Clinton; the Sandusky, at Sandusky; and the Cuyahoga, at Cleveland. All these rivers, especially those on the southern slope, sweep majestically through fertile alluvial valleys, set in picturesque and often magnificent scenery, the Muskingum and Hocking being particularly noteworthy in this respect.

The climate of the southern slope, while sometimes subject to sudden and severe changes, is mild and healthful, the mean average temperature being from 52 to 54 degrees. On the northern slope, the average is 38 to 50 degrees. The average annual rainfall on the Ohio is 44 inches; along the lake shore, 32 inches. There are from eight to 15 days difference in the beginning of the spring season between the extreme southern and extreme northern points of the state, as shown by the growth of vernal vegetation and the maturing of the winter wheat crop.

The Ohio is navigable at all seasons, except in severe winter on its upper waters. The Muskingum is navigable as far north as Zanesville. The northern Ohio canal connects Lake Erie with the Ohio from Cleveland to Portsmouth, with branches down the Muskingum and the Hocking. The Miami and Erie canal connects the lake and the river from Toledo to Cincinnati. Railways cobweb the entire state, and there is not a town or village of any consequence that is not in direct or immediate connection, by rail, with the rest of the world. In consequence, groups of beautiful suburban towns have been built up around Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and

The aboriginal tribes inhabiting the state three centuries ago were: the Eries, who occupied the south shores of Lake Erie; the Delawares, who inhabited the valleys of the Muskingum and its upper tributaries; the Shawnees, in the valley of the Scioto; and the Ottawas, Miamis, Illinois and Wyandots (or Hurons), who were spread over the northwestern part of the state and into the valleys of the two Miamis. Other incursive and fragmentary tribes ocupied portions of the territory from time to time. In 1659 the Iroquois pushed westward, and, after exterminating the Eries, took possession of their country, to eventually meet a similar fate at the hands of the white mn.

Doubtless, the first white man to enter what now comprises the state of Ohio was La Salle, the renowned French explorer. In the spring of 1670, he discovered the Ohio river, and descended it as far as the falls of Louisville, Ky., in a canoe, or primitive

GENERAL SIMON KENTON. craft. A century elapsed before any actual settlements worthy the name French missions and trading posts were established along the northern border, and the representatives of France claimed possession of the territory to an extent unknown and unexplored. The cession by the Iroquois to the English of all the lands they had conquered from the other Indian tribes northwest of the Ohio river precipitated a conflict of title which was only settled by the treaty which put a period to the French and Indian war.

English Trading Post.

In 1748 the English established a trading post on the Great Miami river. near the site of the present city of Piqua, in Miami county, which was named Pickawillany. The object was to open up a line of communication between Fort Duquesne, or, perhaps, more properly speaking, between Virginia and Pennsylvania and the remoter west. This post was designed to be one of a series to open up a great trading thoroughfare.

The French, who had undisputed claim to Canada, resented the English assumption of authority, and, early in 1752, in alliance with the Ottawas and Chippewas, made a descent upon the post, captured it, and carried the traders to Canada. This, so far as the records disclose, was the beginning and the end of the first English settlement within the present limits of Ohio. Some years subsequently all the tribes northwest of the Ohio ceded their land to the English government, and after the War of the Revolution confirmed the cession to the United States. But an almost interminable series of Indian hostilities continued for many years.

Notwithstanding the Indian titles had been extinguished, legislative action by the congress was necessary to open up the Northwest Territory to settlement, as citizens were prohibited from settling alike on the lands of the Indians and of the United States. The ordinance of 1785 was designed to ascertain and fix the mode of disposing of the lands. Surveys were made and limited sales were effected in 1787, in New York and Philadelphia. amounting to less than $125,000. No further sales were made or attempted in the district, under these surveys, until a land office was opened at Steubenville, July 1, 1801.

The Ordinance of 1787 constituted the Northwest Territory a civil government with limited powers. Embraced within its boundaries were the present states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Territerial officers were appointed by congress as follows: Governor, General Arthur St. Clair; secretary, Winthrop Sargent; judges, Samuel Holden Parsens, John Armstrong and James Mitchell Varnum. The governor and Judges enacted the laws, and afterward enforced them. Magistrates and minor civil officers were appointed by the governor.

A WEEK OF PRAYER.

Reformed Church Adopted Resolution Naming the First Week

In January.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 9 .- At the session of the general synod of the Reformed church in America consideration was given to the first ten of the resolutions submitted the day before by the committee on the growth of the church. The first resolution adopted was that tecommending the observance of the first week in January as a week of prayer. Among the resolutions presented by a committee were a number favoring changes in liturgical offices, especially those for the ordination and installation of elders, deacons and ministers. A special committee was appointed to revise the form of these offices. A special committee was also appointed to revise the baptismal form.

A resolution was submitted by the Rev. Cornelius L. Wells, requesting churches to fill their pulpits with graduates from Reformed colleges. This brought out a long delate, in which a number of ministers, formerly of other denominations, who had joined the Reformed church, took part. The motion was finally declared unconstitutional and was withdrawn. A change in the form of the Lord's supper service was proposed, but no action

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 10-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle, Topic.-Lives that lift.-Luke xiii, 20, 21. THE PARABLE.

This topic is illustrated by the parable of the leaven and the meal. It is associated by the evangelists with that of the mustard seed-the one representing the external growth and spread of brist's church and the other the intergrowth of Christian principles and ir universal extension. After the amble of the mustard seed, Jesus said: "Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? It is like leaven which a weman took and hid in three measures of meal till the whole was

THE INTERPRETATION.

The kingdom of God represents the church which is to spread over the world as the leaven throughout the meal. The leaven represents the word of God, or the new living principle brought into the world by Christ, which is to be implanted in the hearts of men and which will lift them as leaven lifts or raises the meal. There is no significance in the fact that there were three measures of meal or that it was a woman who hid the leaven in the meal. This was the usual amount, and the work was such as a woman usually performs.

THE APPLICATION.

This parable very naturally suggests the lifting force of Christianity upon the lives of men. It not only suggests lifting lives, but sets before us some facts in reference to lives that lift.

1. Lives that lift must themselves first be lifted. All men in their natural estate are like the meal. They need a leaven to raise them from a condition of sinfulness before God to a position that is acceptable to God. It is easy to see that this is necessary before our lives can influence the lives of others for good. The blind cannot lead the blind. The unreformed cannot reform. Before a portion of meal could leaven that adjoining it it must itself be leavened. No man can lift the lives of others by this new force which Christ has brought into the world until we ourselves are Christianized and

2. Lives that lift must come in actual contact with the lives that need to be lifted. The leaven had to touch the meal before it would be leavened. So, by the touch of our lives in some way, the principle of new life which we possess must be implanted in the hearts and lives of others if they are to be lifted Christward and heavenward. By personal example, by personal attentions, by personal persuasions, we of others if we are to win them for The trouble is never with the leaven of

3. The greatest lifter of lives is Christ Himself. He is the life. The leaven is really not so much the word of Christ as it is Christ Himself. Christ in the heart lifts the life. Christ in the world is lifting the whole world. Christ lived and died that He might raise men from the lowest depths of sin and misery to the highest heights of glory and happiness. But He not only lifts the lives of those who accept Him, but He places within them the power of drawing others to Him, that they may be lifted up. He is not only the great moral and spiritual magnet who draws all men unto Him, but He magnetizes those who are drawn, and they possess the power to draw men up unto Him. Have we been lifted to Christ? Are we lifting others to Him?

FOR MOTHERS.

The period immediately following child-birth is fraught with many dangers. The strength has been used in the painful ordeal through which the mother has passed and she finds herself helpless and weakened. Many mothers, like Mrs. Ford, date the beginning of their illness from the birth of their child. Indeed the frequent spectacle of a healthy young woman becoming a chronic invalid after motherhood is one of the tragedies of life. All this is unnecessary, when Wine of Cardui is obtainable. It rehabilitates the shattered nervous system, strengthens the organs and ligaments, and re-establishes a healthy, natural condition, saving years of chronic sickness and suffering. Wine of Cardui taken just before confinement will render the ordeal comparatively painless.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

"Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of Ged? It is like unto leaven."

The attractive power of a pure personality is the most elevating influence this world knows. There is a fearfully alluring and contagious force in vice. Evil propagates with almost as much rapidity as microbes of some foul diseases and with as disastrous effects, but righteousness is more virile and recuperative and permanent.

> Truth crushed to earth shall rise again, The eternal years of God are hers, But error, wounded, writhes with pain And dies among his worshipers.

With marvelous rapidity the yeast germs multiply under proper condi tions of heat and moi ture and in a proper medium. So do religious truth and godliness. If at times it seems that the church languishes and false doctrines flourish and sin is rampant, it is well to study the facts closely and seek must make our lives touch the lives to discover the conditions of the times. truth and right. But the absence of it may be one of the causes of prevalent apathy and open ungodliness. If salt is no longer saline, it will not prevent meat spoiling. If men are no longer truthful and honest, they will not inspire confidence in and love of integrity, however prominent they may be in church circles. On the other hand, if salt be saline it will preserve the meat without regard to the locality where made or the form of packing and labeling it may receive. However humble and seemingly uninfluertial a person may be, if the soul is pure and the life consistent there cannot fail to be influences of purity proceeding from it to all who come in contact with it. Gentleness of speech and courtesy of manner, when they proceed from a genuine nature, whole souled and full orbed in brotherly kindness, will conquer obstinacy, enmity and malice more surely than any other weapons. Leaven will raise meal if it has a fair chance. No one expects it to make bread of clay, or, if they do, and it fails is the strongest and represents the so to work, the fault is not in leaven or in leiety organized by Wesley. clay, but in their lack of rational insight. They lack common sense. Three years of discipleship with Jesus Christ fails to make Judas Iscariot other than 32; Gal. vi, 1-10; Phil. iii, 12-14; Col. a thief, a betrayer of innocence and holiness. The fault was not in Jesus, but in Judas.

> The gospel will save men if they will let it get in its work properly in heart and action. The goodness in the world truths and practice its precepts. This today is the result of the influence of God's Holy Spirit. It saves the individual and lifts communities, nations, worlds. The most powerful force in this universe is this same leaven of the gospel. It lifts men from being sinners into sainthood and divine heirship. Watch it work. Feel its action. Be lifted yourself. Help lift others as you go up.

Nothing of worth comes without work. Money and lands may be bequeathed, but ability to use them wisely and enjoy them can never be passed from one to another. If secured at all, it must be by personal exertion. Poverty does not prevent the winning of the prizes of life. Sometimes it is a direct advantage. The children of wealthy parents are not necessarily in better or worse condition than those who are poorer. Work is the price of all good things in this life.

"Help yourself, and heaven will help you." In the religious life this is eminently true. Longing to be good never made any one better till the desire led to active practice of virtue and living trust in God. Powers of soul can be developed only by use. Faith grows strong only as it faces doubts and overcomes them. Hope becomes an anchor to the soul only as disappointments and disasters drive it from the beaten track of life into dangers of the lee shore; then it finds bed in the unseen, and however the winds and waves may beat and surf may thunder on the beach it holds and saves.

If you want to love God more, begin loving Him some and by showing that love by helping His children. Love grows by loving. Get interested in God's people. Do something for somebody. Don't be afraid to touch somebody with sympathy. Get out of self. Forget your own heartaches in relieving some other person's heartache. God works. If you want to get near Him, you must do it in His workshop, helping.

The Various Branches.

There are some people, and they not a few, who do not yet realize that there are many branches of the Methodist tree. There are almost a dozen in the United States. Each has a history well worth study. The Methodist Episcopal is the largest in membership and best known. Then comes the Methodist Episcopal Church South. In Canada all branches have united, and they constitute the third body in number and influence on the continent.

In England the Wesleyan connection

In the main points these four bodies agree in their doctrines and customs. They differ in the manner in which they are governed. The English and Canadian churches have no bishops. but superintendents.

If this is to be a Christian nation, the people must know the Bible, love its they can only do by becoming acquainted with it by reading and preaching. Socialism of any stripe cannot save. Isms are not the antidote for sin. So cial culture has no sure basis except regenerated hearts and converted lives No lifting without leaven. A Christian who does not read his Bible constantly is like dead yeast-lifting power is gone.

The complainant is a resident of East Liverpool township, living near Walker's. The crime is said to have been committed about two months ago when Ripley was employed at the Walker works. He is now at Beaver Falls, where Constable Powell went this morning to make the arrest. It is believed that Ripley will consent to be brought here for trial without causing any trouble, but if not requisition papers will be made out and he will be brought here this evening.

The girl is only 14 years and 10 months old. Ripley left some time ago and was recently located at Beaver Falls. Mr. McCarthy saw him there and endeavored to have him consent to marry the girl, but arrangements could not be made, with the result that the warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

They Can Drill, Too.

A Good Thing.

The practice of throwing paper in the street has almost entirely ceased since council instructed the street commissioner to enforce the ordinance in regard to it.

Completed Soon.

The plans and specifications for the new Carnegie library will be completed soon, and then the contract for the new library will be let.

Trenton Art School.

"I would like to express my gratitude to you for the benefit I have received from your wonderful 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. H. C. Anderson, of South Britain, New Haven Co., Conn. I was only in hard labor about one hour and got along nicely during confine ment; was up and dressed on the eighth day.

"The 'Favorite Prescription' helped me won-derfully. It kept me from having a miscarriage. This makes my second child; with the first one I did not take 'Favorite Prescription' and I had a miscarriage. This last baby is as plump and healthy as any mother could wish."

It is but a few days since an eminent ironmaster overwhelmned doubts and questions by the positive declaration that any decline whatever in the price of iron this year was ssible. Yet anthracite No. 1 has The News Review job office makes declined $4.25 per ton, and this week the Besse mer association has reduced its price at Pittsburg $4.90 per ton, and the southern makers $2 per ton. The decline in ratio of prices of pig iron from 112.7 in January to 93.6 this week, and in the finished products from 98.5 to 80.1 does not show the entire change, as the steel and wire company's guarantee of prices in case of further reduction respecting products not then shipped is in effect a concession. A few large contracts are reported, but the new business is so small that many works are stopping or reducing force.

The minor metals and coke are weaker. Pe troleum has again been reduced to 7.85 cents against 9.90 April 4, and rubber to 86 cents against $1.04 in March. Silk and hemp are both lower. Wool has not declined further. but is weak and in small demand, many of the mills having inadequate orders for goods.

The rise of 21/2 cents in wheat, attributed to injuries threatening a short movement next fall, affected stocks also somewhat. Failures for the week have been 206 in the

CITIZENS ASKED TO HELP ALONG

Captain E. S. Niles, of the Salvation Army, is busily engaged preparing for the annual childen's outing. Last year over 300 poor children were given a most enjoyable outing at Oakland, and the captain hopes to be able to take as many if pot more this year. The picnic will be held on Friday, June 22, at Oakland. The transportation will be furnished free and the pleasure of the little ones will be looked after at the park by two committees, one of ladies for the girls and one of men for the boys. Captain Niles makes an earnest appeal to all citizens who think such an outing would be worthy. The expense of the day is more than the army can attend to unassisted, but if the good people will come to the rescue as they did last year there will be no difficulty.

The detailed arrangements for the outing have not yet been completed, but it is the intention to have the cars on the switch at 8 a. m. so that the children can reach the park early in the morning and have the whole day there, returning in the cool of the evening. It is the intention to furnish ice cream and lemonade to all the children participating.

Praise For Them In the Official Dispatches Describing the Affair at Catubig, Samar Island.

Washington, June 9.—The war department received reports from Captain H. M. Day, of the Forty-third volunteer infantry, and First Lieutenant J. T. manded the rescue party, giving all the details of the attack, the siege and the relief of the American garrison at Catubig, island of Samar. A party of 31 enlisted men of Company H. Fortythird infantry, held at bay a force estimated at about 600. According to these reports the attack on the garrison at Catubig began without warning on Sanday morning, April 15. On Tuesday morning handfuls of burning hemp were thrown into the barracks from the insurgents in a church, and soon the soldiers' refuge was on fire. All efforts to subdue the fire failed, and finally the little band made a dash for the river bank. Some were killed before the bank was reached, others fell dead in a boat in which they were attempting to make the opposite shore, and, when a trench finally was dug with bayonets, there were only 16 of the 31 left to man it. Here for two more days Corporal Carson held out under a terrible fire, until Lieutenant Sweeney's command, which had been ordered to supplement the garrison at Catubig and was on its way up the river on the steamer Leo Ang, arrived. The small boats were lowered, a landing effected and the rescuers fought their way through the open to their besieged comrades in the trenches, buried the dead within reach, brought back to the boat the besieged party. numbering now only 13 men, and then steamed down the river.

Captain Dev bestows the highest commendation upon Corporal Carson as "displaying extraordinarily good judgment in the handling of his men, thereby saving the lives of the survivors and protecting the wounded until relief came." To each of the little command, and their rescuers, he gives the highest praise. "Their zeal and ability," he says, "were a fitting example of the worth and courage of the American soldier.

Rise In Wheat and Fear of Western Railway Rate War Affected the Market.

NEW YORK, June 9 .- The combination bull movement in wheat and bear movement in stocks, which is an annual feature at some period of the grow. ing crop, made its appearance Friday. There is growing uneasiness as well over the rate situation among railroads west of Chicago. Failing a settlement, there is said to be a likelihood of a widespread and costly rate war. Coming in combination with the bad reports from the wheat country, this served to effectually break the market, and prices went to pieces in the last half hour of the trading, the weakness spreading from the Grangers, Pacifics and Southwesterns into the trunk lines and specialties and embracing the whole list. This break came after a day of persistent dullness and irregular fluctuations in prices. Missouri Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio showed weakness before the general break on fears of disappointment regarding dividends.

The preliminary estimates of the bank state ment figure out a small loss in cash, owing to the week's heavy absorption by the sub-treasury, which amounted to $3,117,000, all on account of the call by the trassury of government deposits in the banks. The estimates of receipts from the interior are slightly in excess of those made last Friday, but it will be remembered that last Friday's estimate fell short by $1,500,000 of the actual receipts, so that a gain in cash in today's statement would not be surprising. The market closed active and weak at about the lowest.

The bond market was very dull and price changes were very small. Total sales, par value, $1,190,000. United States bonds were unchanged in bid quotations.

A RISE IN WHEAT.

Advanced 2 1-2 to 2 5-8 Cents Per Bushel, Making Over 5 Cents In Three Days.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Another sensational advance took place in wheat Friday, prices advancing 21/2 to 25/8c per bushel, making over 5c in the last three days. The outside speculative interests were big buyers of wheat on crop damage news from the northwest, and the profe sional operators, while trying several times during the day to undermine prices, met their match and were obliged to retreat in the last hour when highest prices of the session were attained. Crop damage reports from spring wheat states are undoubtedly very bullish, but there is some question as to whether the advance has not been too rapid under the circumstances. July wheat went up trom 75% e early in the day to 77% in the late afternoon, closing at 774e. Foreign houses also proved good buyers of the staple, and general sentiment was strongly in favor of higher prices, should rain be withheld much longer from the spring wheat belt. Operations in the option market reached a total of about 5,000,000 bushels for the day, which is the heaviest business done in a year or more.

Lisbon, June 9.—(Special.)—The jury in the case of J. B. McKinnon vs. the Pennsylvania company brought in a verdict last evening in favor of the plaintiff. ## MILLIONS OF BOXERS.

More Powerful Than Any Chinese Political Party.

MANIPULATED BY ADROIT MEN.

Movement In Reality Said to Be Against All Foreigners-May Turn Ultimately Against the Dynasty - Secret Orders Paralyze Chinese Military Action,

LONDON, June 9.—Definite returns the Chinese 'roops and the "Boxers" that was going on Thursday between Tien Tsin and Pekin had not been received at Tien Tsin when the latest telegrams to reach London were filed. The of criminal correction. Chinese troops, however, had killed many "Boxers," according to some reports, while another account had the government soldiery defeated in an engagement near Pao Ting Fu.

Apparently the legation guards have not yet taken a hand in the fighting, but they are ready to do so at a moment's notice. The "Boxer" movement affects some hundreds of square miles. The official dispatches to Vienna from Pekin aver that the sect is more powerful than any political party in China, embracing more than 4,000,000, and manipulated by zealous and adroit men.

The representatives of the powers are still acting in perfect concert, which appears for the present to give the Chinese government ample chance to put down the disturbers alone.

Secret orders from Pekin, the protectar of the rebels, has paralyzed military action by the Chinese and raised the status of the "Boxers" in the eyes of the ignorant masses. Although the "Boxers" declare their first object to be the annihilation of Catholic converts, the wire-puller's evidently wish to propagate hatred among the country people against foreigners and things foreign in general. The movement on the surface has a patriotic character, but it may turn ultimately against the dynasty. This seems to be the reason why it has thus far been treated with a gentle hand.

The legations at Pekin have wired for reinforcements.

MISSIONARIES SAFE.

But a Dispatch From a Presbyterian Missionary Said There Was Still Danger.

NEW YORK, June 9 .- The anxiety which had been felt in regard to the Presbyterian missionaries in the Pekin district was partially allayed by the receipt of a cablegram from Dr. John W. Henry, one of the board's oldest missionaries in China. The board cabled for information, and the reply, which came several days later, read:

"Still danger," This was taken to indicate that no serious depradations had been made as yet by the Boxers. The Presbyterian board has 58 American missionaries in the Shantung province. The American board also received a cablegram stating that all American missionaries were well, but that the government was demoralized, and advised that help be requested from the state department.

LARGE ORDERS OF ARMOR.

Naval Department Will Try to Get It Cheaper by Asking Bids For Big Amounts.

WASHINGTON, June 9 .- The navy department is about to issue advertisements calling for proposals for supplying face-hardened armor of the best type for the battleships already building, for the protected cruisers already authorized and for the three battleships provided for in the new naval appropriation bill. Having been assured that much better terms could be extended by the armor companies if the contracts were for larger amounts of armor, the department will test this by providing in the advertisements for the admission of bids of three classes, namely, for supplying 10,000 tons of armor, then for 20,000 tons and finally for supplying 30,-

There is reason to believe that under the last provision at least, the companies will offer to provide armor for less than $500 per ton. It will be for Secretary Long to determine whether their figure is reasonable. If not he must build an armor plant. The weight of opinion, however, is to the effect that any rate below $500 will be regarded as "reasonable."

PRESIDENT'S VISIT TO CANTON.

Decided to Remain In Washington Until Latter Part of Month.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—It now seems probable that the president will not go to Canton until the latter part of the present month and certainly not until after the national Republican convention, which meets in Philadelphia on June 19. A large number of letters have been received at the White House from political organizations in different parts of the country, stating that it was their intention to stop in Washington for an hour or two on their way to the Philadelphia convention to pay their respects to the president. Under these circumstances the president has decided to remain here until after the convention. It is understood that he has decided not to take the California trip this summer.

Friday was the anniversary of Mrs. McKinley's birthday and many of her Washington friends called to offer their congratulations. A large number of baskets and bouquets of flowers and congratulatory telegrams were received during the day.

THREE DEAD IN MINE.

Fatal Explosion Occurred at Glouster, O.

NEARLY 200 MEN WERE RESCUED.

If the Accident Had Happened a Few Moments Later, the Destruction of Human Lives Might Have Been Very Great-One Man Injured.

GLOUSTER, O., June 9.-Two hunhundred miners were imprisoned by an explosion of gas in mine No. 2 and as many more were about to enter the mine for work. All were rescued and saved except three. Evan Joseph, John McCleiland and Aaron Swanson were killed and their bodies were still in the

These men were engaged to watch the large mine at night and see that it was in condition for the miners to enter in the morning. They were cut off from all means of escape at the time of the explosion and their horses perished with William Williams, also employed in the mine, had his leg broken and others suffered slight injuries.

The explosion set the mine on fire, and the rescuing party has been working with difficulty. State Mine Inspector Elmer G. Biddison was telegraphed for, and he, with Deputy Inspector Williams, are on the ground trying to smother and drown out the flames, but so far they have been unsuccessful. A second explosion occurred, and shortly afterward a third, in which the systems of fans used to force fresh air in the mine was completely destroyed.

Joseph leaves a large family. The other two were single.

There were 400 men employed in the mine. Had the explosion occurred a few moments later, after all the men had entered and taken their positions, the destruction of human life would have been fearful to contemplate, Mine No. 2 is owned by W. P. Rend & Co., of Chicago. The shaft is 120 feet deep, and it was sealed up in the attempt to smother the fire.

BULLER OUTFLANKS BOERS.

Obtained Positions Which He Said He Believed Would Render Laing's Nek Untenable.

LONDON, June 9.-The war office received the following dispatch from General Buller:

YELLOW BOOM FARM, June 8 .- General Talbot Coke, with the Tenth brigade and the South African Light Horse, seized Van Wyck ill. The enemy made some resistance and a good deal of sniping occurred. Our casualties were about four killed and 13 wounded.

During the day and the following we got two 4.7 and two 12-pounder naval guns on to Van Wyck hill and two 5-inch guns onto the southwestern spur of Inkewelo. Under cover of their fire General Hildyard assaulted all the spurs of the berg between Botha's pass and Inkewelo.

The attack, which was well planned by Hildyard and carried out with immense dash by the troops, for whom no mountains were too steep, outflanked the enemy, who were forced to retire from their very strong position.

I think we did not have any casualties, and I hope I have obtained a position from which I can render Laing's nek untenable.

MAJ. RATHBONE'S TROUBLES

$15,000 of Vouchers Thrown Out-Fidelity Company to Be Held Responsible For His Bond.

HAVANA, June 9 .- The troubles of Estes G. Rathbone, former director of posts, seemed to be increasing. The auditor's department threw out $15,000 worth of vouchers, including $8,000 worth of bills, which have been paid twice, most of them at Muncie, 1nd.

The Fidelity company was notified that it will be held responsible for Mr. Rathbone's bond. Mr. Miller, the manager of the company, and Mr. Rathbone held prolonged interviews during the last few days.

The authorities contend that the Fi delity company is responsible. Rathbone's friends insist that C. F. W. Neely deceived Mr. Rathbone, who signed at Neely's request, without knowing what. Corrydon Rich has been placed under a $2,000 bond as a witness in the Neely case. A letter has been received here by a friend of Neelv saying that if forced to return, he will show that Rich is a liar, and that the latter (Rich) did as much as he (Neely)

Philadelphia Mayor Replies to Citizens.

HE TURNS DOWN INVESTIGATION.

Said the Proposed Committee Would Have No Legal Right to Compel Witnesses to Testify-Declared English Visited Wanamaker In Private Capacity,

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—The reply was made public of Mayor Ashbridge to the citizens' committee relative to the English-Wanamaker episode of a few weeks ago.

The committee, in its communication, asked for a public investigation by a committee of citizens to be appointed, one by the chairman of the town meeting, and one each by the Board of Trade, the Trades' Leagne, the Commercial Exchange and the Manufacturers' club.

The mayor, in his reply, denied that Director English visited Mr. Wanamaker in the capacity of a public official, but said his call was purely that of a private citizen to protest against the publications in The North American (which is owned by Mr. Wanamaker's son) regarding Director English's private affairs and those of his family. The mayor said that Mr. Wanamaker had previously informed Mr. English that he did not approve of such publications, and that Mr. Wanamaker had invited Mr. English to call upon him in case of recurrence of such objectionable publi-

He said the proposed investigation would not be legal, as it would have no power to compel attendance of wit-

Relative to the demand that Mr. English be dismissed unless his innocence can be clearly established, the mayor says that it is always presumed that a man is innocent unless proved otherwise, yet the committee would apply a different rule in the case of a trusted official. Under such test, he says, no man could ever be safe.

The mayor makes no direct comment on the request for his own resignation.

In the course of his answer he declared the resolutions adopted by the town meeting were of no force, as they said English went in his public capacity, which he did not. He said he would himself protest against attacks on his private affairs or family, and he gave his employes the same privilege.

Decided to Remain In Washington Until Latter Part of Month.

Washington, June 9.—It now seems probable that the president will not go to Canton until the latter part of the present month and certainly not until after the national Republican convention, which meets in Philadelphia on June 19. A large number of letters Inkewelo. have been received at the White House from political organizations in different parts of the country, stating that it was their intention to stop in Washington for an hour or two on their way to the Philadelphia convention to pay their respects to the president. Under these circumstances the president has decided to remain here until after the convention. It is understood that he has decided not to take the California trip this summer.

Friday was the anniversary of Mrs McKinley's birthday and many of her congratulations. A large number of baskets and bouquets of flowers and congratulatory telegrams were received during the day.

THREE DEAD IN MINE.

Fatal Explosion Occurred at Glouster, O.

NEARLY 200 MEN WERE RESCUED.

If the Accident Had Happened a Few Moments Later, the Destruction of Human Lives Might Have Been Very Great-One Man Injured.

GLOUSTER. O., June 9.-Two hunhundred miners were imprisoned by an explosion of gas in mine No. 2 and as many more were about to enter the mine for work. All were rescued and saved except three. Evan Joseph, John McCleiland and Aaron Swanson were killed and their bodies were still in the

These men were engaged to watch the large mine at night and see that it was in condition for the miners to enter in the morning. They were cut off from all means of escape at the time of the explosion and their horses perished with William Williams, also employed in the mine, had his leg broken and others suffered slight injuries.

The explosion set the mine on fire, and the rescuing party has been working with difficulty. State Mine Inspector Elmer G. Biddison was telegraphed for, and he, with Deputy Inspector Williams, are on the ground trying to smother and drown out the flames, but so far they have been unsuccessful. A second explosion occurred, and shortly afterward a third, in which the systems of fans used to force fresh air in the mine was completely destroyed.

Joseph leaves a large family. The other two were single.

There were 400 men employed in the mine. Had the explosion occurred a few moments later, after all the men had entered and taken their positions, the destruction of human life would have been fearful to contemplate, Mine No. 2 is owned by W. P. Rend & Co., of Chicago. The shaft is 120 feet deep, and it was sealed up in the attempt to smother the fire.

BULLER OUTFLANKS BOERS.

Obtained Positions Which He Said He Believed Would Render Laing's Nek Untenable.

LONDON, June 9.-The war office received the following dispatch from General Buller:

YELLOW BOOM FARM, June 8 .- General Talbot Coke, with the Tenth brigade and the South African Light Horse, seized Van Wyck ill. The enemy made some resistance and a good deal of sniping occurred. Our casualties were about four killed and 13 wounded.

During the day and the following we got two 4.7 and two 12-pounder naval guns on to Van Wyck hill and two 5-inch guns onto the southwestern spur of Inkewelo. Under cover of their fire General Hildyard assaulted all the spurs of the berg between Botha's pass and

The attack, which was well planned by Hildyard and carried out with immense dash by the troops, for whom no mountains were too steep, outflanked the enemy, who were forced to retire from their very strong position.

I think we did not have any casualties, and I hope I have obtained a position from which I can render Laing's nek untenable.

GREETED BY MRS. KRUGER. British Officers Called and Changed Guard at Presidency.

LONDON, June 9.-A special dispatch from Pretoria describes the visit made Washington friends called to offer their by officers of Lord Roberts'staff to the presidency, Tuesday, June 5. It said: We were received by a Dutch pastor and, shortly, were joined by Mrs. Kruger. The latter wore a black silk dress and white cap. She composedly exchanged greetings with her visitors, who notified her of their intention to replace the Burgher guards by a guard of reports received at the war department British troops. The Burgher guards there show that three natives were convicted upon laid down their arms on the asphalated porch of the building, near the lions guarding the entrance.

MAJ. RATHBONE'S TROUBLES

$15,000 of Vouchers Thrown Out-Fidelity Company to Be Held Responsible For His Bond.

HAVANA, June 9 .- The troubles of Estes G. Rathbone, tormer director of posts, seemed to be increasing. The auditor's department threw out $15,000 worth of vouchers including $8,000 worth of bills, which have been paid twice, most of them at Muncie, !nd.

The Fidelity company was notified that it will be held responsible for Mr. Rathbone's bond. Mr. Miller, the manager of the company, and Mr. Rathbone held prolonged interviews during the last few days.

The authorities contend that the Fi delity company is responsible. Mr Rathbone's friends insist that C. F. W Neely deceived Mr. Rathbone, who signed at Neely's request, without knowing what. Corrydon Rich has been placed under a $2,000 bond as a witness in the Neely case. A letter has been received here by a friend of Neelv saving that if forced to return, he will show that Rich is a liar, and that the latter (Rich) did as much as he (Neely)

Philadelphia Mayor Replies to Citizens.

HE TURNS DOWN INVESTIGATION.

Said the Proposed Committee Would Have No Legal Right to Compel Witnesses to Testify-Declared English Visited Wanamaker In Private Capacity,

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—The reply was made public of Mayor Ashbridge to the citizens' committee relative to the English-Wanamaker episode of a few weeks ago.

The committee, in its communication, asked for a public investigation by a committee of citizens to be appointed, one by the chairman of the town meeting, and one each by the Board of Trade, the Trades' Leagne, the Commercial Exchange and the Manufacturers' club.

The mayor, in his reply, denied that Director English visited Mr. Wanamaker in the capacity of a public official, but said his call was purely that of a private citizen to protest against the publications in The North American (which is owned by Mr. Wanamaker's son) regarding Director English's private affairs and those of his family. The mayor said that Mr. Wanamaker had previously informed Mr. English that he did not approve of such publications, and that Mr. Wanamaker had invited Mr. English to call upon him in case of recurrence of such objectionable publications.

He said the proposed investigation would not be legal, as it would have no power to compel attendance of wit-

Relative to the demand that Mr. English be dismissed unless his innocence can be clearly established, the mayor says that it is always presumed that a man is innocent unless proved otherwise, yet the committee would apply a different rule in the case of a trusted official. Under such test, he says, no man could ever be safe.

The mayor makes no direct comment on the request for his own resignation. In the course of his answer he declared the resolutions adopted by the town meeting were of no force, as they said English went in his public capacity, which he did not. He said he would himself protest against attacks on his private affairs or family, and he gave

Y., in time to attend the public reception in his honor on the 15th inst. PAILADELPHIA, June 9.—Tonight the Young Republican club will give a reception to National Committeeman Richard C. Kerens, of Missouri, who will at the same time be presented with a loving cup, for having "cast the vote which brought the convention to Philadelphia." This reception will be the event marking the coming of the party leaders, several of whom are expected to attend the affair.

any or its prototypes, containing the best and strongest of afi, and the worst and weakest of none. It was born of common dangers, common hardships, mutual sacrifices and common purposes, shared by all and endured by all with a common fortitude. These founders of a new moral and material empire came to build up a nobler commonwealth in a virgin soil; not to dismantle, dismember and scatter the acretions of the ages; to forge and weld the new links of a newer brotherhood, higher than creeds, holier than dogmas, not to tear agape the wounds inflicted by the javelins of prejudice or wrought by the hand of bigotry.

Upon a broad and solid rock like this, in the midst of hostile nature and a barbarous race, with one hand on the plow and the other on the hilt: with peace upon the right, war upon the left, hope in front and natal memories far arear, our pioneer ancestry laid the foundations of the state and began erecting the proud temples of empire which their children and their children's children are now completing, under the shining folds of that ensign whose stars differ not in brightness nor diminish in glory. Strong of mind, strong of body, strong of limb, strong of faith, strong of purpose, strong of hope and strong of courage, they smote the wilderness and it smiled responsive to the newer aspirations. The dusky hosts of a cumbering barbarism were driven hence, the primeval forest melted before their steady strokes, the log cabin followed the wigwam, the songs of civilization and the anthems of coming peace drowned the war whoop, hamlets budded by lake and hill and river and rivulet, and cities finally arose and grew to grandeur and mansions dotted the country side as the tide of emigration from beyond the mountains and beyond the seas poured into and over the fertile plains of the Ohio basin, submerged the rounded and modulated hills, and touched the long savannas with a life and a civilization which paled the supreme moments of the Golden Age, until Ohio became indeed, the seat of thought and empire, fitted and destined to lead the republic in the first great political and military epoch which followed the sealing of the purple testament of the Revolution.

Theirs is the glory of the achievement; it is ours to enjoy the rich harvest which followed their sowing. Not one of us need care to trace his lineage beyond the noble men and women who founded the state of Ohio. The bluest blood of kings is but as water compared to the pulsing current that throbs through the veins of the sons and daughters of the pioneers of Ohio.

The heroes of the classic page, born of mythology and garnitured with the rainbow tints of poetic fancy, did not come up to the stature of the pioneer men and women whom the most of us have seen in the flesh, who taught our feet to walk; who taught us the plain and simple truths of an unselfish Christianity; who taught us that matchless code of morals which elevated while it restrained: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." We may well claim to be the princes of the earth for we take our title by birthright from heroic and godlike men and women, who stand before kings and potentates, whose achievement was the founding of an empire which recognizes manhood and wemanhood as the true factors of the political and social problem. Their deeds live after to praise them-deeds that rival those of Homer's heroes, and "there are the breath of fame and trumpets blowing in them," and will be till the end of Superficial people occasionally assert that our pioneer ancestry were of coarse social texture, ignorant of the finer amenities of life and unlettered and unlearned. This is a mistaken idea and so proven by the written records of the times, as well as by our own knowledge gained by contact with our ancestors.

Mental Giants of First Half Century.

During the first half of the century, here in Ohio, the graces of learning and knowledge and social amenities were more eagerly and earnestly sought for and more generally found, in proportion to the mass of population, than during the last half. There were no frills and fringes on the plain and practical schooling of those days, but the scattered schools turned out mental giants and trained athletes, whose names and lives are an imperishable part of our history.

Between 1800 and 1850 Ohio nurtured and bred a John McLean, a Jeremiah Morrow, a John W. Campbell, a William Creighton, Jr., a Philemon Beecher, a Duncan McArthur, a Joseph Vance, a Samuel F. Vinton, a Mordecai Bartley, an Elishia Whittlesey, a James Findlay, a William Stanbery, a Henry Stanbery, a Thomas L. Hamer, a William Allen, an Allen G. Thurman, a Jeremiah McLane, a Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., a George E. Pugh. a Stanley Matthews, a Bellamy Storer, a Patrick G. Goode, a Joshua R. Giddings, a Salmon P. Chase, an Alexander Duncan, a Thomas Ewing, a Thomas Corwin, an Emory D. Potter, a John B. Weller, a David Tod, a John Brough, a Joseph J. McDowell, a James J. Faran, a Robert C. Schenck, a David P. Disney, an Alfred P. Edgerton, a Thomas Worthington, an Edward Tiffin, a Benjamin Tappan, a Benjamin Wade, a William A. Trimble, an Edwin M. Stanton, and an hundred others equally great.

The geographical position of Ohio, with reference to more than half the other states of the Union, makes it the gateway for the domestic land traffic and transportation between the east and north, and west and northwest and southwest, while her lake ports at Toledo, Sandusky, Cleveland and other points along the southern shore of Lake Erie put her in direct communication with the great water route between all of these sections, except the southwest, which is supplied by the Ohio river.

The original boundaries of the state were: On the east by the Pennsyl-Vania line; on the south by the Ohio river to the mouth of the Great Miami; on the west by a line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami river; on the north by an east and west line drawn through the southerly extreme of Lake Michigan, running east after intersecting the meridian that makes the western boundary of the state until it intersects Lake Erie, or the territorial line; and thence, with the same, through Lake Erie to the Pennsylvania line. The eastern, southern and western boundaries remain unchanged, but the northern boundary was somewhat changed and modified. As finally established by congress, in 1836, it consists of a direct line, or in other words, of the arc of a great circle, instead of a parallel of latitude, from the southern extremity of Lake Michigan to the most northerly cape of the Maumee Bay. and thence northeast to the boundary line between the United States and Canada, and along this boundary to its intersection with the boundary of Pennsylvania. This change was provided for in the enabling act of congress, and also by the state constitution of 1802; but the moving cause thereto was the dispute that arose prior to and culminating in 1835-6, between the state of Ohio and the territory of Michigan, as to jurisdiction along this border.

More technically defined, the territory of the state may be said to lie between 38 degrees 27 minutes and 41 degrees 57 minutes north latitude, and betweeen 80 degrees 34 minutes and 84 degrees 49 minutes west longitude. More popularly described, it is bounded on the east by Pennsylvania and West Virginia; on the south by West Virginia and Kentucky, the Ohio separating it from the two latter; on the west by Indiana, and on the north by Michigan and Lake Erie. The longest north and south line that can be drawn through the state is 210 miles, and the longest east and west line is 225 miles. The area of the state is 40,760 square miles.

Physical Features of the State.

The general surface of the state is an undulating plain. The highest point of elevation-1,540 feet-is one-half mile northeast of Bellefontaine, Logan county, locally known as Hogue's Hill. There are 42 other elevations, in as many counties, almost as great. The lowest noint is found at the southwest corner, at the intersection of the Ohio and Great Miami valleys, where the elevation above tide is 440 feet. These extremities of altitude are but 1,100 feet apart, making the range for the state small. The range of elevation over the entire state is proximately 750 feet.

The chief feature of the topography of the state is the main watershed, which extends from its northeastern corner to about the middle of its western boundary. It divides the surface of the state into two unequal slopes, the northern, and much the smaller, sending its waters into Lake Erie and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, while the drainage of the other has its destination in the Gulf of Mexico, via the Ohio and Mississippi. The average height of the watershed is 1,100 feet, but it is cut by three principal gaps, marking the upper waters of the Maumee, Scioto and Tuscarawas; the former draining the western portion of the northern slope, the second the central, and the last the upper eastern portion of the southern slope.

While the general plan of the state is an undulating plain, the action of the waters, especially on the southern slope, has diversified it with wide and fertile valleys, beautifully modulated hills, and rugged bluffs and highlands, making a most striking ensemble. There are alternations of hills and valleys, glens, champaigns, and wide stretches of prairie. The principal rivers on the southern slope are the Tuscarawas and Muskingum, which uniting, flow into the Ohio at Marietta; the Hocking, at Hockingport; the Scioto, at Portsmouth; the Little Miami, at the upper boundary of Cincinnati; and the Great Miami, at the corner of Ohio and Indiana. The rivers draining the northern slope are the Maumee, with its numerous tributaries, which falls into Lake Erie at Toledo; the Portage, at Port Clinton; the Sandusky, at Sandusky; and the Cuyahoga, at Cleveland. All these rivers, especially those on the southern slope, sweep majestically through fertile alluvial valleys, set in picturesque and often magnificent scenery, the Muskingum and Hocking being particularly noteworthy in this respect.

The climate of the southern slope, while sometimes subject to sudden and severe changes, is mild and healthful, the mean average temperature being from 52 to 54 degrees. On the northern slope, the average is 38 to 50 degrees. The average annual rainfall on the Ohio is 44 inches; along the lake shore, 32 inches. There are from eight to 15 days difference in the beginning of the spring season between the extreme southern and extreme northern points of the state, as shown by the growth of vernal vegetation and the maturing of the winter wheat crop.

The Ohio is navigable at all seasons, except in severe winter on its upper waters. The Muskingum is navigable as far north as Zanesville. The northern Ohio canal connects Lake Erie with the Ohio from Cleveland to Portsmouth, with branches down the Muskingum and the Hocking. The Miami and Erie canal connects the lake and the river from Toledo to Cincinnati. Railways cobweb the entire state, and there is not a town or village of any consequence that is not in direct or immediate connection, by rail, with the rest of the world. In consequence, groups of beautiful suburban towns have been built up around Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and other cities.

The aboriginal tribes inhabiting the state three centuries ago were: the Eries, who occupied the south shores of Lake Erie; the Delawares, who inhabited the valleys of the Muskingum and its upper tributaries; the Shawnees, in the valley of the Scioto; and the Ottawas, Miamis, Illinois and Wyandots (or Hurons), who were spread over the northwestern part of the state and into the valleys of the two Miamis. Other incursive and fragmentary tribes ocupied portions of the territory from time to time. In 1659 the Iroquois pushed westward, and, after exterminating the Eries, took possession of their country, to eventually meet a similar fate at the hands of the white mn.

Doubtless, the first white man to enter what now comprises the state of Ohio was La Salle, the renowned French explorer. In the spring of 1670. he discovered the Ohio river, and descended it as far as the falls of Louisville, Ky., in a canoe, or primitive craft. A century elapsed before any actual settlements worthy the name were made.

French missions and trading posts were established along the northern border, and the representatives of France claimed possession of the territory to an extent unknown and unexplored. The cession by the Iroquois to the English of all the lands they had conquered from the other Indian tribes northwest of the Ohio river precipitated a conflict of title which was only settled by the treaty which put a period to the French and Indian war.

GENERAL SIMON KENTON.

English Trading Post.

In 1748 the English established a trading post on the Great Miami river, near the site of the present city of Piqua, in Miami county, which was named Pickawillany. The object was to open up a line of communication between Fort Duquesne, or, perhaps, more properly speaking, between Virginia and Pennsylvania and the remoter west. This post was designed to be one of a series to open up a great trading thoroughfare.

The French, who had undisputed claim to Canada, resented the English assumption of authority, and, early in 1752, in alliance with the Ottawas and Chippewas, made a descent upon the post, captured it, and carried the traders to Canada. This, so far as the records disclose, was the beginning and the end of the first English settlement within the present limits of Ohio. Some years subsequently all the tribes northwest of the Ohio ceded their land to the English government, and after the War of the Revolution confirmed the cession to the United States. But an almost interminable series of Indian hostilities continued for many years.

Notwithstanding the Indian titles had been extinguished, legislative action by the congress was necessary to open up the Northwest Territory to settlement, as citizens were prohibited from settling alike on the lands of the Indians and of the United States. The ordinance of 1785 was designed to ascertain and fix the mode of disposing of the lands. Surveys were made and limited sales were effected in 1787, in New York and Philadelphia. amounting to less than $125,000. No further sales were made or attempted in the district, under these surveys, until a land office was opened at Steubenville, July 1, 1801.

The Ordinance of 1787 constituted the Northwest Territory a civil government with limited powers. Embraced within its boundaries were the present states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Territorial officers were appointed by congress as follows: Governor, General Arthur St. Clair; secretary, Winthrop Sargent; judges, Samuel Holden Parsens, John Armstrong and James Mitchell Varnum. The governor and Judges enacted the laws, and afterward enforced them. Magistrates and minor civil officers were appointed by the governor.

On the 27th of October, 1787, Manassah Cutler and Winthrop Sargent, on behalf of their associates of the New England Ohio company, entered into be can found in this paper.

Theirs is the glory of the achievement; it is ours to enjoy the rich harvest which followed their sowing. Not one of us need care to trace his lineage beyond the noble men and women who founded the state of Ohio. The bluest blood of kings is but as water compared to the pulsing current that throbs through the veins of the sons and daughters of the pioneers of Ohio.

The heroes of the classic page, born of mythology and garnitured with the rainbow tints of poetic fancy, did not come up to the stature of the pioneer men and women whom the most of us have seen in the flesh, who taught our feet to walk; who taught us the plain and simple truths of an unselfish Christianity; who taught us that matchless code of morals which elevated while it restrained: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." We may well claim to be the princes of the earth for we take our title by birthright from heroic and godlike men and women, who stand before kings and potentates, whose achievement was the founding of an empire which recognizes manhood and wemanhood as the true factors of the political and social problem. Their deeds live after to praise them-deeds that rival those of Homer's heroes, and "there are the breath of fame and trumpets blowing in them," and will be till the end of our civilization.

Superficial people occasionally assert that our pioneer ancestry were of coarse social texture, ignorant of the finer amenities of life and unlettered and unlearned. This is a mistaken idea and so proven by the written records of the times, as well as by our own knowledge gained by contact with our ancestors.

Mental Giants of First Half Century.

During the first half of the century, here in Ohio, the graces of learning and knowledge and social amenities were more eagerly and earnestly sought for and more generally found, in proportion to the mass of population, than during the last half. There were no frills and fringes on the plain and practical schooling of those days, but the scattered schools turned out mental giants and trained athletes, whose names and lives are an imperishable part of our history.

Between 1800 and 1850 Ohio nurtured and bred a John McLean, a Jeremiah Morrow, a John W. Campbell, a William Creighton, Jr., a Philemon Beecher, a Duncan McArthur, a Joseph Vance, a Samuel F. Vinton, a Mordecai Bartley, an Elishia Whittlesey, a James Findlay, a William Stanbery, a Henry Stanbery, a Thomas L. Hamer, a William Allen, an Allen G. Thurman, a Jeremiah McLane, a Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., a George E. Pugh, a Stanley Matthews, a Bellamy Storer, a Patrick G. Goode, a Joshua R. Giddings, a Salmon P. Chase, an Alexander Duncan, a Thomas Ewing, a Thomas Corwin, an Emory D. Potter, a John B. Weller, a David Tod, a John Brough, a Joseph J. McDowell, a James J. Faran, a Robert C. Schenck, a David P. Disney, an Alfred P. Edgerton, a Thomas Worthington, an Edward Tiffin, a Benjamin Tappan, a Benjamin Wade, a William A. Trimble, an Edwin M Stanton, and an hundred others equally great.

The geographical position of Ohio, with reference to more than half the other states of the Union, makes it the gateway for the domestic land traffic and transportation between the east and north, and west and northwest and southwest, while her lake ports at Toledo. Sandusky, Cleveland and other points along the southern shore of Lake Erie put her in direct communication with the great water route between all of these sections, except the southwest, which is supplied by the Ohio river. The original boundaries of the state were: On the east by the Pennsyl-Vania line; on the south by the Ohio river to the mouth of the Great Miami; on the west by a line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami river; on the north by an east and west line drawn through the southerly extreme of Lake Michigan, running east after intersecting the meridian that makes the western boundary of the state until it intersects Lake Erie, or the territorial line; and thence, with the same, through Lake Erie to the Pennsylvania line. The eastern, southern and western boundaries remain unchanged, but the northern boundary was somewhat changed and modified. As finally established by congress, in 1836, it consists of a direct line, or in other words, of the arc of a great circle, instead of a parallel of latitude, from the southern extremity of Lake Michigan to the most northerly cape of the Maumee Bay. and thence northeast to the boundary line between the United States and Canada, and along this boundary to its intersection with the boundary of Pennsylvania. This change was provided for in the enabling act of congress, and also by the state constitution of 1802; but the moving cause thereto was the dispute that arose prior to and culminating in 1835-6, between the state of Ohio and the territory of Michigan, as to jurisdiction along this border.

More technically defined, the territory of the state may be said to lie between 38 degrees 27 minutes and 41 degrees 57 minutes north latitude, and betweeen 80 degrees 34 minutes and 84 degrees 49 minutes west longitude. More popularly described, it is bounded on the east by Pennsylvania and West Virginia; on the south by West Virginia and Kentucky, the Ohio separating it from the two latter; on the west by Indiana, and on the north by Michigan and Lake Erie. The longest north and south line that can be drawn through the state is 210 miles, and the longest east and west line is 225 miles. The area of the state is 40,760 square miles.

Physical Features of the State.

The general surface of the state is an undulating plain. The highest point of elevation-1,540 feet-is one-half mile northeast of Bellefontaine, Logan county, locally known as Hogue's Hill. There are 42 other elevations, in as many counties, almost as great. The lowest point is found at the southwest corner, at the intersection of the Ohio and Great Miami valleys, where the elevation above tide is 440 feet. These extremities of altitude are but 1,100 feet apart, making the range for the state small. The range of elevation over the entire state is proximately 750 feet.

The chief feature of the topography of the state is the main watershed, which extends from its northeastern corner to about the middle of its western boundary. It divides the surface of the state into two unequal slopes, the northern, and much the smaller, sending its waters into Lake Erie and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, while the drainage of the other has its destination in the Gulf of Mexico, via the Ohio and Mississippi. The average height of the watershed is 1,100 feet, but it is cut by three principal gaps, marking the upper waters of the Maumee, Scioto and Tuscarawas; the former draining the western portion of the northern slope, the second the central, and the last the upper eastern portion of the southern slope.

While the general plan of the state is an undulating plain, the action of the waters, especially on the southern slope, has diversified it with wide and fertile valleys, beautifully modulated hills, and rugged bluffs and highlands, making a most striking ensemble. There are alternations of hills and valleys, glens, champaigns, and wide stretches of prairie. The principal rivers on the southern slope are the Tuscarawas and Muskingum, which uniting, flow into the Ohio at Marietta; the Hocking, at Hockingport; the Scioto, at Portsmouth; the Little Miami, at the upper boundary of Cincinnati; and the Great Miami, at the corner of Ohio and Indiana. The rivers draining the northern slope are the Maumee, with its numerous tributaries. which falls into Lake Erie at Toledo; the Portage, at Port Clinton; the Sandusky, at Sandusky; and the Cuyahoga, at Cleveland. All these rivers, especially those on the southern slope, sweep majestically through fertile alluvial valleys, set in picturesque and often magnificent scenery, the Muskingum and Hocking being particularly noteworthy in this respect.

The climate of the southern slope, while sometimes subject to sudden and severe changes, is mild and healthful, the mean average temperature being from 52 to 54 degrees. On the northern slope, the average is 38 to 50 degrees. The average annual rainfall on the Ohio is 44 inches; along the lake shore, 32 inches. There are from eight to 15 days difference in the beginning of the spring season between the extreme southern and extreme northern points of the state, as shown by the growth of vernal vegetation and the maturing of the winter wheat crop.

The Ohio is navigable at all seasons, except in severe winter on its upper waters. The Muskingum is navigable as far north as Zanesville. The northern Ohio canal connects Lake Erie with the Ohio from Cleveland to Portsmouth, with branches down the Muskingum and the Hocking. The Miami and Erie canal connects the lake and the river from Toledo to Cincinnati. Railways cobweb the entire state, and there is not a town or village of any consequence that is not in direct or immediate connection, by rail, with the rest of the world. In consequence, groups of beautiful suburban towns have been built up around Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and other cities.

The aboriginal tribes inhabiting the state three centuries ago were: the Eries, who occupied the south shores of Lake Erie; the Delawares, who inhabited the valleys of the Muskingum and its upper tributaries; the Shawnees, in the valley of the Scioto; and the Ottawas, Miamis, Illinois and Wyandots (or Hurons), who were spread over the northwestern part of the state and into the valleys of the two Miamis. Other incursive and fragmentary tribes ocupied portions of the territory from time to time. In 1659 the Iroquois pushed westward, and, after exterminating the Eries, took possession of their country, to eventually meet a similar fate at the hands of craft. A century elapsed before any actual settlements worthy the name were made.

Doubtless, the first white man to enter what now comprises the state of Ohio was La Salle, the renowned French explorer. In the spring of 1670. he discovered the Ohio river, and descended it as far as the falls of Louisville, Ky., in a canoe, or primitive

French missions and trading posts were established along the northern border, and the representatives of France claimed possession of the territory to an extent unknown and unexplored. The cession by the Iroquois to the English of all the lands they had conquered from the other Indian tribes northwest of the Ohio river precipitated a conflict of title which was only settled by the treaty which put a period to the French and Indian war.

English Trading Post.

In 1748 the English established a trading post on the Great Miami river, near the site of the present city of Piqua, in Miami county, which was named Pickawillany. The object was to open up a line of communication between Fort Duquesne, or, perhaps, more properly speaking, between Virginia and Pennsylvania and the remoter west. This post was designed to be one of a series to open up a great trading thoroughfare.

The French, who had undisputed claim to Canada, resented the English assumption of authority, and, early in 1752, in alliance with the Ottawas and Chippewas, made a descent upon the post, captured it, and carried the traders to Canada. This, so far as the records disclose, was the beginning and the end of the first English settlement within the present limits of Ohio. Some years subsequently all the tribes northwest of the Ohio ceded their land to the English government, and after the War of the Revolution confirmed the cession to the United States. But an almost interminable series of Indian hostilities continued for many years.

Notwithstanding the Indian titles had been extinguished, legislative ection by the congress was necessary to open up the Northwest Territory to settlement, as citizens were prohibited from settling alike on the lands of the Indians and of the United States. The ordinance of 1785 was designed to ascertain and fix the mode of disposing of the lands. Surveys were made and limited sales were effected in 1787, in New York and Philadelphia. amounting to less than $125,000. No further sales were made or attempted in the district, under these surveys, until a land office was opened at Steubenville, July 1, 1801.

The Ordinance of 1787 constituted the Northwest Territory a civil government with limited powers. Embraced within its boundaries were the present states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Territerial officers were appointed by congress as follows: Governor, General Arthur St. Clair; secretary, Winthrop Sargent; judges, Samuel Holden Parsens, John Armstrong and James Mitchell Varnum. The governor and Judges enacted the laws, and afterward enforced them. Magistrates and minor civil officers were appointed by the governor.

On the 27th of October, 1787, Manassah Cutler and Winthrop Sargent, on behalf of their associates of the New England Ohio company, entered into be can found in this paper.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 10-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle, Topic.-Lives that lift.-Luke xiii, 20, 21. THE PARABLE.

This topic is illustrated by the parable of the leaven and the meal. It is associated by the evangelists with that of the mustard seed-the one representing the external growth and spread of rist's church and the other the intergrowth of Christian principles and ir universal extension. After the arable of the mustard seed, Jesus said: "Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? It is like leaven which a weman took and hid in three measures of meal till the whole was leavened."

THE INTERPRETATION.

The kingdom of God represents the church which is to spread over the world as the leaven throughout the meal. The leaven represents the word of God, or the new living principle brought into the world by Christ, which is to be implanted in the hearts of men and which will lift them as leaven lifts or raises the meal. There is no significance in the fact that there were three measures of meal or that it was a woman who hid the leaven in the meal. This was the usual amount, and the work was such as a woman usually performs.

THE APPLICATION.

This parable very naturally suggests the lifting force of Christianity upon the lives of men. It not only suggests lifting lives, but sets before us some facts in reference to lives that lift.

1. Lives that lift must themselves first be lifted. All men in their natural estate are like the meal. They need a leaven to raise them from a condition of sinfulness before God to a position that is acceptable to God. It is easy to see that this is necessary bethey endeavored to procure calls for fore our lives can influence the lives each other to the exclusion of other of others for good. The blind cannot lead the blind. The unreformed cannot reform. Before a portion of meal could leaven that adjoining it it must itself be leavened. No man can lift the lives of others by this new force which Christ has brought into the world until we ourselves are Christianized and

> 2. Lives that lift must come in actual contact with the lives that need to be lifted. The leaven had to touch the meal before it would be leavened. So, by the touch of our lives in some way, the principle of new life which we pos-By personal example, by personal attentions, by personal persuasions, we must make our lives touch the lives

> 3. The greatest lifter of lives is Christ Himself. He is the life. The leaven is really not so much the word of Christ as it is Christ Himself. Christ raise men from the lowest depths of sin and misery to the highest heights of glory and happiness. But He not only lifts the lives of those who accept Him, but He places within them the power of drawing others to Him, that they may be lifted up. He is not only the great moral and spiritual magnet who draws all men unto Him, but and they possess the power to draw men up unto Him. Have we been lifted to Christ? Are we lifting others to Him?

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a biographical meeting. Arrange a special programme, with five minute papers or addresses on the lives of men which have been conspicuous for their lifting powers-Peter, Paul, Barnabas, Luther, Wesley, Spurgeon, Murphy, Moody.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

"Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? It is like unto leaven.'

The attractive power of a pure personality is the most elevating influence this world knows. There is a fearfully alluring and contagious force in vice. Evil propagates with almost as much rapidity as microbes of some foul diseases and with as disastrous effects, but righteousness is more virile and recuperative and permanent.

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again, The eternal years of God are hers, But error, wounded, writhes with pain And dies among his worshipers.

With marvelous rapidity the yeast germs multiply under proper conditions of heat and moisture and in a sess must be implanted in the hearts proper medium. So do religious truth and lives of others if they are to be and godliness. If at times it seems that lifted Christward and heavenward the church languishes and false doctrines flourish and sin is rampant, it is well to study the facts closely and seek to discover the conditions of the times. of others if we are to win them for The trouble is never with the leaven of truth and right. But the absence of it may be one of the causes of prevalent apathy and open ungodliness. If salt is no longer saline, it will not prevent meat spoiling. On the other hand, if salt be saline it will preserve the meat without regard to the locality where made or the form of packing and labeling it may receive. However humble and seemingly uninfluential a person may be, if the soul is pure and the life consistent there cannot fail to be influences of purity proceeding from tree. Then comes the Methorbed in brotherly kindness, will conquer obstinacy, enmity and malice more surely than any other weapons. Leaven will raise meal if it has a fair chance. The fault was not in Jesus, but in Judas.

> The gospel will save men if they will let it get in its work properly in heart and action. The goodness in the world today is the result of the influence of God's Holy Spirit. It saves the individual and lifts communities, nations, worlds. The most powerful force in this universe is this same leaven of the gospel. It lifts men from being sinners into sainthood and divine heirship. Watch it work. Feel its action. Be lifted yourself. Help lift others as you

Nothing of worth comes without work. Money and lands may be bequeathed, but ability to use them wisely and enjoy them can never be passed from one to another. If secured at all, it must be by personal exertion. Poverty does not prevent the winning of the prizes of life. Sometimes it is a direct advantage. The children of wealthy parents are not necessarily in better or worse condition than those who are poorer. Work is the price of all good things in this life.

"Help yourself, and heaven will help you." In the religious life this is eminently true. Longing to be good never made any one better till the desire led to active practice of virtue and living trust in God. Powers of soul can be developed only by use. Faith grows strong only as it faces doubts and overcomes them. Hope becomes an anchor to the soul only as disappointments and disasters drive it from the beaten track of life into dangers of the lee shore; then it finds bed in the unseen, and however the winds and waves may beat and surf may thunder on the beach it holds and saves.

If you want to love God more, begin loving Him some and by showing that love by helping His children. Love grows by loving. Get interested in God's people. Do something for somebody. Don't be afraid to touch somebody with sympathy. Get out of self. Forget your own heartaches in relieving some other person's heartache. God works. If you want to get near Him, you must do it in His workshop, helping.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 10-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle, Topic.-Lives that lift.-Luke xiii, 20, 21. THE PARABLE.

This topic is illustrated by the parable of the leaven and the meal. It is associated by the evangelists with that of the mustard seed-the one representing the external growth and spread of brist's church and the other the intergrowth of Christian principles and ir universal extension. After the arable of the mustard seed, Jesus said: "Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God? It is like leaven which a weman took and hid in three measures of meal till the whole was leavened.

THE INTERPRETATION.

The kingdom of God represents the church which is to spread over the world as the leaven throughout the meal. The leaven represents the word of God, or the new living principle brought into the world by Christ, which is to be implanted in the hearts of men and which will lift them as leaven lifts or raises the meal. There is no significance in the fact that there were three measures of meal or that it was a woman who hid the leaven in the meal. This was the usual amount, and the work was such as a woman usually performs.

THE APPLICATION.

This parable very naturally suggests the lifting force of Christianity upon the lives of men. It not only suggests lifting lives, but sets before us some facts in reference to lives that lift.

1. Lives that lift must themselves first be lifted. All men in their natural estate are like the meal. They need a leaven to raise them from a condition of sinfulness before God to a position that is acceptable to God. It is easy to see that this is necessary before our lives can influence the lives of others for good. The blind cannot lead the blind. The unreformed cannot reform. Before a portion of meal could leaven that adjoining it it must itself be leavened. No man can lift the lives of others by this new force which Christ has brought into the world until we ourselves are Christianized and lifted.

2. Lives that lift must come in actual contact with the lives that need to be lifted. The leaven had to touch the meal before it would be leavened. So, by the touch of our lives in some way, the principle of new life which we possess must be implanted in the hearts and lives of others if they are to be lifted Christward and heavenward. By personal example, by personal attentions, by personal persuasions, we must make our lives touch the lives of others if we are to win them for Christ. 3. The greatest lifter of lives is Christ Himself. He is the life. The leaven is really not so much the word of Christ as it is Christ Himself. Christ in the heart lifts the life. Christ in the world is lifting the whole world. Christ lived and died that He might raise men from the lowest depths of sin and misery to the highest heights of glory and happiness. But He not only lifts the lives of those who accept Him, but He places within them the power of drawing others to Him, that they may be lifted up. He is not only the great moral and spiritual magnet who draws all men unto Him, but He magnetizes those who are drawn, and they possess the power to draw men up unto Him. Have we been lifted to Christ? Are we lifting others to Him?

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a biographical meeting. Arrange a special programme, with five minute papers or addresses on the lives of men which have been conspicuous for their lifting powers-Peter, Paul, Barnabas, Luther, Wesley, Spurgeon, Murphy, Moody.

FOR MOTHERS.

The period immediately following child-birth is fraught with many dangers. The strength has been used in the painful ordeal through which the mother has passed and she finds herself helpless and weakened. Many mothers, like Mrs. Ford, date the beginning of their illness from the birth of their child. Indeed the frequent spectacle of a healthy young woman becoming a chronic invalid after motherhood is one of the tragedies of life. All this is unnecessary, when Wine of Cardui is obtainable. It rehabilitates the shattered nervous system, strengthens the organs and ligaments, and re-establishes a healthy, natural condition, saving years of chronic sickness and suffering. Wine of Cardui taken just before confinement will render the ordeal comparatively painless. It will re-enforce and strengthen the organs for their work. For every trying crisis in a woman's life, Wine of Cardui is the medicine to take. Ask your druggist for Wine of Cardui and take no substitute. If one is offered send $1.00 for a bottle to the Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, WINE OF CARDU

After my baby was born I took the whites and falling of the womb, and was in a very dangerous condition. I read one of your home treatment books, and commenced to treat myself with Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught.

I am thankful for what the medicine did for me, and I am now in better health than I have been for a long time.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

"Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of Ged? It is like unto leaven."

The attractive power of a pure per sonality is the most elevating influence this world knows. There is a fearfully alluring and contagious force in vice. Evil propagates with almost as much rapidity as microbes of some foul diseases and with as disastrous effects, but righteousness is more virile and recuperative and permanent.

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again, The eternal years of God are hers But error, wounded, writhes with pain And dies among his worshipers.

With marvelous rapidity the yeast germs multiply under proper conditions of heat and mointure and in a proper medium. So do religious truth and godliness. If at times it seems that the church languishes and false doctrines flourish and sin is rampant, it is well to study the facts closely and seek to discover the conditions of the times. The trouble is never with the leaven of truth and right. But the absence of it may be one of the causes of prevalent apathy and open ungodliness. If salt is no longer saline, it will not prevent meat spoiling. If men are no longer truthful and honest, they will not inspire confidence in and love of integrity, however prominent they may be in church circles. On the other hand, if salt be saline it will preserve the meat without regard to the locality where made or the form of packing and labeling it may receive. However humble and seemingly uninfluential a person may be, if the soul is pure and the life consistent there cannot fail to be influences of purity proceeding from it to all who come in contact with it. Gentleness of speech and courtesy of manner, when they proceed from a genuine nature, whole souled and full orbed in brotherly kindness, will conquer obstinacy, enmity and malice more surely than any other weapons. Leaven will raise meal if it has a fair chance. No one expects it to make bread of clay, or, if they do, and it fails to work, the fault is not in leaven or in clay, but in their lack of rational insight. They lack common sense. Three years of discipleship with Jesus Christ fails to make Judas Iscariot other than a thief, a betrayer of innocence and holiness. The fault was not in Jesus, but in Judas.

The gospel will save men if they will let it get in its work properly in heart and action. The goodness in the world today is the result of the influence of God's Holy Spirit. It saves the individual and lifts communities, nations, worlds. The most powerful force in this universe is this same leaven of the gospel. It lifts men from being sinners into sainthood and divine heirship. Watch it work. Feel its action. Be lifted yourself. Help lift others as you

Nothing of worth comes without work. Money and lands may be bequeathed, but ability to use them wisely and enjoy them can never be passed from one to another. If secured at all, it must be by personal exertion. Poverty does not prevent the winning of the prizes of life. Sometimes it is a direct advantage. The children of wealthy parents are not necessarily in better or worse condition than those who are poorer. Work is the price of all good things in this life.

"Help yourself, and heaven will help you." In the religious life this is eminently true. Longing to be good never made any one better till the desire led to active practice of virtue and living trust in God. Powers of soul can be developed only by use. Faith grows strong only as it faces doubts and overcomes them. Hope becomes an anchor to the soul only as disappointments and disasters drive it from the beaten track of life into dangers of the lee shore; then it finds bed in the unseen, and however the winds and waves may beat and surf may thunder on the beach it holds and saves.

If you want to love God more, begin loving Him some and by showing that love by helping His children. Love grows by loving. Get interested in God's people. Do something for somebody. Don't be afraid to touch somebody with sympathy. Get out of self. Forget your own heartaches in relieving some other person's heartache. God works. If you want to get near Him, you must do it in His workshop, helping.

The Various Branches.

There are some people, and they not a few, who do not yet realize that there are many branches of the Methodist tree. There are almost a dozen in the United States. Each has a history well worth study. The Methodist Episcopal is the largest in membership and best known. Then comes the Methodist Episcopal Church South. In Canada all branches have united, and they constitute the third body in number and influence on the continent.

In England the Wesleyan connection is the strongest and represents the soriety organized by Wesley.

In the main points these four bodies agree in their doctrines and customs. They differ in the manner in which they are governed. The English and Canadian churches have no bishops. but superintendents.

If this is to be a Christian nation, the people must know the Bible, love its truths and practice its precepts. This they can only do by becoming acquainted with it by reading and preaching. Socialism of any stripe cannot save. Isms are not the antidote for sin. Social culture has no sure basis except regenerated hearts and converted lives. No lifting without leaven. A Christian who does not read his Bible constantly is like dead yeast-lifting power is gone.
